

Salad Bowl, Part IV
Nikko Ong

1. A pickled version of this food is served with papadums in Indian restaurants in the UK, and they are known as chanh muoi in Vietnamese cuisine. The panic of 2014 about this food was caused by a perfect storm in Mexico that destroyed many of these trees' blossoms(*). According to Louisa May Alcott, they were cut and submerged in brine for three to four weeks by Amy, although she likely didn't enjoy this food in the popular cocktail, the Gimlet. FTP, name this food that can be made into a pie that has a "key" variety. (Lime)
2. A dish from this work is served with potatoes "thin as coins but not so hard" and a confection that "rose all sugar from the waves." The feature of that meal is sole over white cream, and it is compared to a meal at a women's college which consisted of stringy beef and gravy soup(*). This work is notable for its depiction of lesbianism, as Chloe likes Oliva, and for portraying Judith Shakespeare in the context of women's education. FTP, name this essay by Virginia Woolf that states that a woman must have money and this if she is to write fiction. (A Room of One's Own)
3. This dish is offered to a "Son of Adam" in a work, and it is commonly made by thickening a sugar syrup with corn flour. One possible inventor of this dish opened a confectionary shop in Bahcekapı in 1777, and recipes for this dish call for it to be made with rosewater and set out overnight(*). After eating this dish, a character explains that he has a brother and two sisters, and is eager to become a prince. That character, Edmund, is plied with this dish by the White Witch. FTP, name this sweet confection from the Chronicles of Narnia, likely first eaten in Istanbul. (Turkish Delight)
4. This dish was called into the public eye in 2007 when Charles Jay Wolff sent a component of it to a U.S. District Court Judge. The Latin translation of this dish is known as virent ova! Virent perna! During a 2013 filibuster of the U.S. Senate (*), this dish was described at length. It was depicted by Michael Douglas and Adam Devine in a TV special about it, and the former notes that he does not want to eat them in a box. FTP, name this dish that Sam-I-Am wants the main character to eat. (Green Eggs and Ham)
5. This dish is said to have come from the Vala Yavanna and several note that it is more "pleasant than cram, by all accounts." Some versions of this dish are wrapped in leaves of silver, while the more common version is wrapped in mallorn leaves. One character eats four of this dish (*) even though it is noted that "one small bite is enough to fill the stomach of a grown man." This dish was the main subsistence of Frodo Baggins and Samwise Gamgee on their way to Mordor. FTP, name this elven dish also known as waybread. (Lembas)
6. This dish caused an uproar after a character complains that he was recently evicted. Some recipes call for three slices of brioche, which is likely also used in another dish where it is baked with onion, celery, and broth. According to that character, this dish was the only good thing going on in his life, (*) and it was special to him because his sister places a piece of gravy soaked bread in the middle. FTP, name this dish of sliced turkey, cranberry sauce, and stuffing between gravy and bread, whose loss ruins Ross Geller's post-thanksgiving lunch. (The Moistmaker, accept Ross's Thanksgiving Sandwich before mention)

7. In this work, Joseph encourages a protagonist to try a chili, which she thinks will cool down the burning of cayenne from the goat curry she had just eaten. Joseph, also known as Jos, had encountered the green chili from his time with the East Indian Company. One of the protagonists of this work says that she must be her own mama, (*) and her revenge against Jos is complete when she likely murders him for life insurance. The other protagonist of this work, Amelia Sedley, is the friend of the chili-hot Becky Sharpe in, FTP, this novel by William Thackeray. (Vanity Fair)
8. Along with summer squash, salmon salad, spiced custard and honey, this dish is in Gopher's lunchbox when he finds Winnie the Pooh stuck in a hole. Gopher tells Winnie the Pooh that he has this dish that likely included corn and zucchini, (*) while some versions use butterbeans. The name for this dish comes from a Narragansett word meaning "broken corn kernels". FTP, name this Algonquin dish that is primarily made of sweet corn and lima beans. (Succotash)
9. This dish was featured in a film whose director made sure to include toilet paper on the table and the only dialogue included is the Mandarin soap opera on TV that the father watches. The complex visual effects of this dish were difficult to produce, as the design language emphasized "squishy, round, and simple," (*) particularly with raw pork filling. This dish is at the center of an allegorical empty-nest syndrome tale of immigrants, and it ends with a shocking moment when the mother eats the dish. FTP, name this Pixar short about a Chinese steamed bun. (Bao)
10. This work features an address that mimics Medea's invocation in Ovid's Metamorphoses to "ye elves of hills and brooks" including those whose pastime is to make midnight mushrooms in Act V. In the previous act, one character creates a masque to teach the values of chastity and a happy marriage (*), and ends with a quote "We are such stuff/ As dreams are made of," and unlikely reference to the magic mushrooms. The witch Sycorax imprisons the spirit Ariel in a tree and leaves behind her son, Caliban. FTP, name this Shakespeare play in which Prospero causes a shipwreck from the titular storm. (The Tempest)
11. A version of this is served on a 4th floor café facing the Grand Army Plaza, and for $39, it includes a seasonal fruit plate with peeled grapes, a miniature croissant, fingerling sandwiches, and lox with crisps. That café is named the Blue Box Café, located (*) on 5th Avenue. Another version comes in a white paper bag and includes a Danish and a paper cup of coffee, eaten at 5 AM in a little black dress. FTP, name this meal that Holly Golightly eats after stepping out of a taxi cab in front of a luxury jewelry store. (Breakfast at Tiffany's)
12. Featured in a film, this dish's real name is a portmanteau of two dishes, one of which is a dish that combines spaghetti with a sauce made of chujang. That component of this compound dish is usually served with julienned cucumbers and scallion(*), while the other component includes kombu and comes in instant varieties marketed by Nongshim. This dish, also known as “jjapaguri” combines the aforementioned chapaggetti with Neoguri, and is referenced in a film in which it is topped with Hanwoo beef. FTP, name this translated name of this iconic dish in the 2019 film Parasite. (Ramdon, accept jjapaguri before mention)

13. In a forward to a book about dining with this man, James Beard mentions that this man had “taste memory...enjoying a meal not for a moment, but a lifetime.” One of his works focuses on Francoise, the Michelangelo of the kitchen, who recounts his grocery haul of a turkey from Roussainville-le-Pin and raspberries that Monsieur Swann (*) had purchased himself. A scene from that volume set in Combray details the taste of a petit madeleine dipped in lime-flower tea, an example of involuntary memory. FTP, name this French author who penned the seven volume “In Search of Lost Time.” (Marcel Proust)
14. This foodstuff is the subject of the Kindly Plant, a section of William Thackeray’s History of Pendennis. The Archbishop of Avranches Pierre Huet wrote an elegy about this foodstuff that was taken from the sacred bough. Alexander Pushkin wrote that “ecstasy is this foodstuff and a piece of sugar.” (*) A tribute version of this foodstuff is described in poem about the Grave Sweeping Festival by Yuan Gao. James Boyd, a Bostonian who wrote about the Revolutionary war, noted that “there’s been a row about this” foodstuff. FTP, name this foodstuff that is brewed and sipped on. (Tea, accept tea leaves)
15. This company’s earnings inspired a decision to invest in Apple, and its first location opened in Monterey, California, while one of its locations in Hawaii employed Chris Pratt. Its menu includes a surf and turf named after the first mate of the original company as well as a “Run across America” Sampler. Benjamin Buford (*) Blue was supposed to be the senior partner in this company, but his death in the Vietnam War led Lieutenant Dan Taylor to take his job on the Bayou Le Batre instead. FTP, name this company turned restaurant founded by Forrest Gump. (Bubba Gump Shrimp Company, prompt on Bubba Gump)
16. This work includes an section about a country’s national dish called paprika hendl, followed by a cornmeal porridge called mamaliga. That section, written by a character who is an English solicitor, is set in a hotel in Klausenburgh, where he writes(*) to his fiancée, Mina, about an eggplant dish popular in Wallachia. After traveling through the Carpathian mountains and arriving at the titular character’s home, Jonathan Harker is served an excellent roast chicken by the “Count,” who later leaves him to three vampire sisters. FTP, name this Gothic horror novel by Bram Stoker. (Dracula)
17. This food was featured in a Broadway musical that featured Steve Rosen in the role of Ladahlord. It was first seen after beans were dropped on the ground, and it is lifted by 501 seagulls that Earthworm attracts(*). This food eventually leads to the demise of Aunt Spiker and Sponge, and it becomes home to seven garden bugs that befriend the main character. FTP, name this food that many think is a bomb when it lands in New York

City, that is “prettier, bigger, and squishier” than a cherry according to Roald Dahl and James. (Giant Peach)

18. A character tells the audience that he can say this dish in seven different languages, and in another instance, he mistakes this dish for the sound of his skull and brain healing. This dish is typically made with ground beef, onions, green chilis, and beans(*), wrapped in flour tortillas and fried, which is likely what that character meant when he said, “it’s time to make” these. That occurred in a film in which the main character undergoes treatment for late-stage cancer, resulting in his disfigurement. FTP, name this favorite food of Deadpool. (Chimichangas)
19. This book was inspired by a hole punch, and the author’s original idea was to create a character named Willi. In 1999, Pizza Hut polled 50 US Governors, and George W. Bush noted that this book was his favorite. On Saturday, the protagonist of this book eats a slice of salami(*), a lollipop, a cupcake, and a huge slice of watermelon, which is significantly more than the one apple it ate on Monday. FTP, name this Royal Entomological Society-endorsed book by Eric Carle where the protagonist undergoes metamorphosis. (The Very Hungry Caterpillar)
20. This drink was replicated by George Mercer and Mark Borril at the Spider’s nightclub, described as a combination of a Harvey Wallbanger and a tarantula. This drink is consumed by a character at Miliways, which takes payments in the form of a penny in any bank account. Lush launched a mouthwash tab named after this drink in 2016, and its original form requires three cubes of Arcturan mega-gin(*) as well as one measure of water from the seas of Sangtravinus V. FTP, name this drink compared to “having your brains smashed out by a slice of lemon wrapped around a large gold brick,” invented by the former President of the Galaxy, Zaphod Beeblebrox. (Pan Galactic Gargle Blaster)
21. This name is given to a simple cocktail of two shots of Grey Goose and a splash of water, which is served at the Half Pint pub for 11 dollars. A work by this name includes a tuna basil sandwich offered by the main character to Mrs. Gurisman, and it revolved around a crisis(*) in which Canadian geese aborted a flight to Charlotte Douglas International Airport. FTP, name this film in which Tom Hanks playing the titular character ditches an Airbus A320 in the Hudson River. (Sully)
22. A character gets access to this food because his vessel was stocked with this food added to the inventory by psychologists. An experiment run by the CIP in Lima, Peru, tests the growing conditions for this food and found that mixing feces with soil may induce toxicity in this food. This food found on the Ares III is freeze-dried and dipped in crushed Vicodin(*) when the main character runs out of ketchup, and he notes that he has over 400 of them, which he usually microwaves or uses to grow seedlings. FTP, name this tuber that Mark Watney grows on Mars. (Potato)
23. This work features an ingredient which one character says is “great for dry skin or a squeak in the door”, called Crisco. Glory Foods produces a branded version of seasoned southern style collard greens as depicted this work(*), and the protagonist’s blind date,

Stuart, is Kentucky bourbon fanatic. Minny serves a chocolate pie laced with feces to Hilly in this work that focuses on the depiction of African American houseworkers in the American South. (The Help)

24. This non-apple food was described by the English poet Christina Rossetti, and she tells the reader to mix, stir, and pop this food. In the Vicar of Wakefield, Reverend Primrose describes the lifestyle of his parishioners, who eat these on Shrove-tide(*). Amelia Simmons' American Cookery has a recipe for this food that calls for milk, Indian meal, and molasses. A study in 2003 found that Kansas is topographically flatter than this food that can sometimes take the name hoe. FTP, name this food cooked on the griddle, for which there is an International House. (Pancakes)

Bonuses:

1. FTPE, name these drinks from Harry Potter.
 - a. In an interview with Bon Appetit, J.K. Rowling stated that this drink tastes like less-sickly butterscotch. According to Neil Genzlinger of the New York Times, the version of this drink served at The Wizarding World of Harry Potter is “nearly indistinguishable from a good quality cream soda.” (Butterbeer)
 - b. This drink is used to toast Mad-Eye Moody's life after his untimely death on a broomstick in Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows. (Firewhiskey)
 - c. Excessive consumption of this potion results in giddiness and overzealousness, and according to Horace Slughorn, is one of the most difficult potions to make. It has the appearance of liquid gold. (Felix Felicis, accept Liquid Luck)
2. To Kill a Mockingbird is one of the most influential books in American literature, and it features food constantly. FTPE:
 - a. Jem tells scout that her fat streaks are showing when she wears this Halloween costume, which ends up saving her life. (Ham, accept pork leg)
 - b. One of the plans to lure this character out of his house was creating a trail of lemon drops from the back door to the front yard. (Boo Radley, prompt on partial answer)
 - c. A candy featured in this book is a meringue confection that includes granulated sugar, egg whites, and corn syrup. It was referred to by this heavenly name in TKAM. (Divinity)
3. “Les Poissons” features in this 1989 movie musical in which a crustacean is trapped in the kitchen of Chef Louis, who is cooking up a feast for a mute princess. FTPE:
 - a. Name this movie whose songs were composed by Alan Menken. (The Little Mermaid)
 - b. Chef Louis uses this technique to cook “Les Poissons” after hacking them in two, when he sings that he pulls out what's inside, and serves it up this way. (Fried)
 - c. Chef Louis notes “quel dommage, what a loss” when he finds this character hiding away, and proceeds to flour him, stuff him with bread, and add him to the sauce. (Sebastian)

4. This book's sequel is about the titular character and the Great Glass Elevator, by Roald Dahl. FTPE:
 - a. Name this book that was adapted into a movie of the same name in 2005. (Charlie and the Chocolate Factory)
 - b. This candy, as Willy Wonka tells Violet, is for children with very little pocket money, and they can be seen being tested in a pool of water to see how long they last. They last forever. (Everlasting Gobstoppers)
 - c. The Three Course Dinner Chewing Gum, which was in development during the movie, feeds the chewer tomato soup, roast beef, baked potatoes, and this dish with ice cream. (Blueberry pie)
 5. This work contains the longest recorded word* in literature, which is also is a dish consisting of seafood, honey, fowl, and wine. FTPE:
 - a. It is mentioned in the final chorus of Assemblywoman, a play by this Greek "Father of Comedy". (Aristophanes)
 - b. That dish is made of meat that is cooked this way. The Art of French Cooking describes it as halfway between a sauté and a stew, which is apt because its name is a compound of the French words for "to fry" and "to break up". (Fricassee)
 - c. One of Assemblywoman's first translations is in the Greek-English Lexicon, often abbreviated as the LSJ. The LSJ was written Robert Scott and Henry Jones in addition to this dean of Oxford, the father of Alice who inspired Lewis Carroll's Alice in Wonderland. (Henry George Liddell)
- Lopadotemachoselachogaleokraniroleipsanodrimhypotrimmatosilphioparaomelito-katakechymenokichlepikeossyphophattoperisteralektryonoptekephalliokigklopeleiolagoiosiraibaphetraganopterygon*
6. This food is grown on Captain Geoffrey "Pirate" Prentice's London rooftop, and he creates a meal for his comrades that includes them 11 ways. FTPE:
 - a. Name this food that Prentice turns into omelets, sandwiches, casseroles, French toast, mead, and kreplach, among many other things. He even sets them on fire. (Bananas)
 - b. Bananas play a breakfast role in this novel which centers on the production of V2 rockets, one of which carries the mysterious Schwarzgerat. This Pynchon novel was described as "unreadable, turgid, and obscene," as well as one of the greatest novels of all time. (Gravity's Rainbow)
 - c. Part 1: Beyond the Zero, of Gravity's Rainbow contains an epigraph by this German-American rocket scientist. (Werner von Braun)
 7. This series epitomized the pioneer lifestyle. FTPE:
 - a. Name this series, which includes the book By the Shores of Silver Lake, where Ma tells Reverend Stuart that she'll try to figure out measurements for flour and milk. (Little House on the Prairie)
 - b. Name this author of Little House on the Prairie. (Laura Ingalls Wilder)

- c. In Little House in the Big Woods, Laura asks her mother why bread made of cornmeal, spread on a board and cooked over an open fire, was called this name. (Johnny-cake)
8. FTPE, name these iconic cocktails.
 - a. This drink is always ordered shaken, not stirred. One version of it named “Vesper” is made with Gordon’s gin and dry vermouth. (Vodka Martini)
 - b. Name this movie, in which Yvonne’s boyfriend orders the champagne cocktail French 75 and Victor Lazlo asks the house band to play La Marseillaise. (Casablanca)
 - c. In Silence of the Lambs, Hannibal Lecter explains that he ate a census taker’s liver with fava beans and this dry Tuscan wine. (Chianti)
9. FTPE, name some more cocktails.
 - a. Some Like it Hot features Tony Curtis and Jack Lemmon in drag, Marilyn Monroe, and this classic New York cocktail which uses rye whiskey, sweet vermouth, and Angostura. (Manhattan)
 - b. The Big Lebowski drinks this cocktail made with coffee, vodka, and milk. (White Russian)
 - c. Carrie Bradshaw often orders this drink in Sex in the City. The International Bartender’s Association defines it to be a drink made with Vodka Citron, fresh lime juice, cranberry juice, and Cointreau. (Cosmopolitan)
10. Dinner with Mr. Darcy, by Pen Volger, contains recipes inspired by the novels of Jane Austen. It inspired this bonus. FTPE:
 - a. In Pride and Prejudice, Mr. Bingley asks Nicholls to make this dish that contains veal stock, cream, and almonds. (White Soup)
 - b. While wealthy estates like Pemberley usually carried stocked fish ponds, this family of Jane, Mary, Elizabeth, Catherine, and Lydia had to buy their fish at the markets. (Bennet family)
 - c. In the Regency era, women were not allowed to drink this rich, sweet, and heavy dessert wine whose grapes are grown in the Douro river valley. (Port)
11. Dinah Reid’s Fictious Dishes features dishes from fiction. FTPE:
 - a. Fictious Dishes begins with a quote from Fahrenheit 451 that notes that “he ate this item like salad, and that they were his sandwich for lunch, his tiffin and dinner and midnight munch. He ate them with salt, doused them with relish.” (Books)
 - b. It includes a picture of this dish of which Oliver Twist would like some more. (Gruel, do not accept porridge)
 - c. One of the dishes depicted is a pail of Chicken Soup with Rice, which is by this American writer and illustrator better known for Where the Wild Things Are. (Maurice Sendak)
12. In this book, the Christmas cookie bonanza includes pecan crescents for the protagonist’s father, sugar cookies, snickerdoodles, molasses cookies, and cowgirl cookies. FTPE:

- a. Name this 2018 teen romantic comedy book turned film in which white chocolate cranberry cookie's are Margot's boyfriend's favorite. It stars Lana Condor as Lara Jean Covey. (To All the Boys I've Loved Before)
 - b. Snickerdoodles are the favorite of this character, the younger sister of Lara Jean. (Kitty, accept Catherine)
 - c. On Sundays, dad makes lasagna with this staple of Tex-Mex cuisine which he says "jazzes it up." (Black Bean Salsa)
13. In this film set in Jutland, the titular character creates a meal worthy of applause that was worth 10,000 francs, revealing that she was formerly the head chef of the Café Anglais in Paris. FTPE:
 - a. Name this Danish film by Gabriel Axel that features Stephane Audran as the housekeeper of Martine and Philippa. (Babette's Feast)
 - b. The feast included the Demidoff version of this Russian-Ukrainian buckwheat pancake, which later evolved into the Ashkenazi Jewish blintz. (Blini)
 - c. Babette's Feast is one of this food personality's favorite movies. This man served as an expert commentator on Iron Chef America and was the host of Cutthroat Kitchen. (Alton Brown)
14. This film saw producer Brad Lewis intern at the French Laundry in Yountville, California. FTPE:
 - a. Name this film and its titular dish, which includes tomatoes, eggplants, and zucchini. (Ratatouille)
 - b. Ratatouille's consultant chef was this owner of the French Laundry, the only American chef to have been awarded simultaneous three Michelin star ratings at two different restaurants. (Thomas Keller)
 - c. Peter O'Toole played this restaurant critic, whose review led to Gusteau's restaurant being downgraded a star. His eyes light up at the childhood memory of ratatouille. (Anton Ego)
15. "I'll make him an offer he can't refuse." FTPE:
 - a. This is a line from what Coppola film about the Corleone crime family starring Al Pacino and Marlon Brando? (The Godfather)
 - b. This character explains to Michael Corleone that the secret to his tomato-sausage sauce is frying the garlic in oil, adding potatoes, tomatoes and sausages, then finishing with wine and sugar. (Peter Clemenza)
 - c. Clemenza later tells Paulie to "Leave the gun. Take the cannoli," which is filled with this type of whey cheese. (Ricotta)
16. Food, like many other things, has made its way into the world of animated television. FTPE:
 - a. Amaama to Inazuma and Poko's Udon World are television series from this Asian country. (Japan)
 - b. Souma Yukihiro trains at Tootsuki Culinary Academy after his father's restaurant closes down in this most popular food-based anime. (Shokugeki no Soma, accept Food Wars)

- c. Ristorante Paradiso is an anime that centers on the daily lives of the staff at the Casetta dell'Orso in Rome. It can be streamed on this American distributor of anime and manga, which launched its first anime convention in 2017, dubbed CRX. (Crunchyroll)
- 17. Lady Jessica and Duke Leto Atreides serve a group of bankers langues de lapins de garenne, or tongues of wild rabbit in a special sauce, in this novel, FTPE:
 - a. Name this 1965 sci-fi novel written by Frank Herbert, where the Atreides family takes stewardship of the planet Arrakis. (Dune)
 - b. Arrakis is a harsh desert planet, the only source of this drug that enhances life and mental capabilities. (Melange, accept Spice)
 - c. In Dune, Lady Jessica undergoes a ritual to become a Reverend Mother by drinking this substance. (Water of Life)
- 18. In this collection of stories, Badr-Al-Din cooks a pomegranate dish. FTPE:
 - a. Name this series in which Aladdin, Sinbad, and Ali Baba were featured as nightly tales with which Scheherazade attempts to delay her death. (1001 Nights, accept Arabian Nights)
 - b. Badr-Al-Din lacks this ingredient in his pomegranate chicken dish, which was likely a fesenjan. This ingredient comes in white, green, pink, and black varieties. (Peppercorn)
 - c. That tale is named after two of these figures, which are political officials in the Muslim world. This office was first held in the Abbasid caliphs. (Vizier)
- 19. This novel sees Salvatore offer Adso of Melk and William of Baskerville a dish of battered fried cheese with sugar and cinnamon. FTPE:
 - a. Name this work in which Adso and William investigate the deaths of monks at a Benedictine monastery, which culminates in the death of Jorge of Burgos. (The Name of the Rose)
 - b. The Name of the Rose was written by this Italian author. (Umberto Eco)
 - c. The Aristotle scholar Venantius is found dead in a vat of this substance, which is also used to make the Spanish morcilla de Burgos. (Pig's blood)
- 20. A dish from this movie is made with spaghetti pasta topped with maple and chocolate syrup. FTPE:
 - a. Name this Christmas comedy film about Buddy trying to reconnect with his birth father, Walter, starring Will Ferrell as the titular character. (Elf)
 - b. Buddy's famous candy breakfast includes fudge pop tarts, mini marshmallows, and these chocolates. (M&M's)
 - c. Elves stick to the four main food groups, which includes this type of candy originally manufactured by the Wunderlee Candy originally called "Chicken Feed." (Candy Corn)
- 21. The Hunger Games has some notable depictions of food. FTPE:
 - a. Peeta gives nut and raisin bread to Katniss in the first book of the Hunger Games. She remarks that aside from this attribute, it was good, hearty bread. (Burnt)

- b. In Katniss's interview with Caesar, she notes that the thing that impressed her most since coming to the capital was this dish served with dried plums on wild rice. (Lamb stew)
 - c. The most popular bread baked in this district of Panem is a salty, fish-shaped loaf tinted green with seaweed. (District 4)
- 22. This character is terrified when another character tries to take his gumdrop buttons. FTPE:
 - a. Name this character that Lord Farquaad mocks by telling him to run under interrogation. (Gingy, accept Gingerbread Man)
 - b. Gingy is interrogated by Lord Farquaad in this comedy whose the main character is voiced by Mike Myers. (Shrek)
 - c. A promotional Shrek version of this food used the same production line as the globally-popular promotional version for Ghostbusters with a green filling. This food was invented by James Alexander Dewar, a baker for the Continental Baking Company. (Twinkies)
- 23. There's only one rule for this food: to never let it cool. FTPE:
 - a. Name this hot drink served on a steam locomotive bound for the North Pole. It is sometimes served with marshmallows or whipped cream. (Hot chocolate)
 - b. Hot chocolate is served on this train that features in a Christmas movie of the same name in which Tom Hanks plays the Conductor, Narrator, Hobo, and Hero Boy's father. (The Polar Express)
 - c. Hot chocolate is often made with cocoa powder, which commonly undergoes this process that gives it a milder flavor compared to the Broma process for chocolate. (Dutch Process)
- 24. Written by Nora Ephron, this romantic comedy featured an iconic scene where the character played by Meg Ryan fakes an orgasm in a restaurant. FTPE:
 - a. Name this movie starring Meg Ryan and Billy Crystal as the titular characters, whose on and off again friendship eventually becomes love. (When Harry met Sally)
 - b. Perhaps the most iconic scene in the movie includes a pastrami sandwich and is set at this delicatessen, where a nearby diner says that "I'll have what she's having." (Katz's Delicatessen)
 - c. The final moments of the film conclude with an interview in which Harry and Sally discuss their wedding cake, which was this type of cake served with a side of chocolate sauce. (Coconut Cake)